Methodological notes

Services – activities aimed at meeting any needs of an individual or society as a whole, carried out by producers at the request of consumers and leading to a change in the state of the units consuming these.

Services are understood as a huge variety of activities and commercial activities, the results of which are not embodied in the material form. The sale of services and their production are inseparable from each other. The moment of completion of services coincides with the moment of their provision to consumers.

The list of services subject to statistical monitoring is indicated in accordance with the CCU (Statistical directory of services).
